

The NHS 10-Year Plan: A human factors perspective

Join us to explore how HF can help turn the plan's vision into change?

The NHS 10-Year Plan aims to shift care from hospitals to communities, analogue to digital, and sickness to prevention—success depends not just on policies, but on designing around people, their needs, and the systems they use.

This interactive roundtable will explore how Human Factors can help turn the plan's vision into practical, sustainable change. Together we will consider:

- What Human Factors principles can offer to each of the three shifts.
- How these ideas might work in practice at national and local level.
- Where the challenges and opportunities lie for staff, patients, and communities.

The session will replace long presentations with brief introductions, followed by a facilitated discussion to explore how Human Factors can support a safer, more compassionate, and effective NHS.
